Welcome Message from the Conference Co-Chair

Dear Colleagues, Distinguished Speakers, and Esteemed Participants,

It is both an honor and a responsibility to serve as Co-Chair of PublicHealth2026. Public health today stands at a critical intersection where prevention, precision medicine, digital innovation, and systems thinking must converge to create sustainable global impact.

This conference represents more than a scientific gathering; it is a collaborative platform where research transforms into policy, innovation translates into practice, and knowledge evolves into measurable health outcomes. As we navigate emerging global health challenges, interdisciplinary dialogue and evidence-based strategies are essential.

I look forward to engaging discussions, meaningful collaborations, and forward-thinking contributions that will shape the future of preventive medicine and population health.

Let us work together to build resilient, equitable, and data-driven health systems for the generations ahead.

Warm regards,

Prof. Dr. Gülsen Meral, MBA, MD, PhD
